

Drinking water is supplied by the City of Chicago, and the water is treated to meet the requirements of the Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA). The water is then distributed to homes and businesses through a network of pipes and valves. The water is then used for drinking, cooking, and other household purposes.